TYPES OF OLIVES

Olives can be a very delicious choice to eat with food. These days, a wide variety of them and their combinations can be found. To choose the right one according to your taste, the first step is to know the different types of olives.

Green olives are one type and are divided into many kinds. Halkidiki is one of the traditional Greek varieties. This type of olive is egg-like, fleshy, juicy, and has a spicy, peppery taste. Manzanilla is another type, mostly found in Spain, and is suitable for those who love the combination of spicy and salty flavors. Other types of green olives include Sicilian and Picholine.

On the other hand, we have black olives, which are divided into Kalamata, Ponentine, Gaeta, Lugano, and Alphonso.
